Great Reasons for you to consider an off season wedding.

- 1. Stretch Your Budget - An off season date will give you more for your money.
Pick an off season date and you'll get a lot more bang for your buck. Off season facility package fees, florists photographers, even hair and make-up will be less expensive in the off season ... use the laws of supply & demand in your favor.
- 2. Make it Unforgettable - Pick a holiday and create a double celebration.
New Year's Eve weddings are becoming popular and trendy. guests love the fact that their New Year's eve plans are made for them. And, you'll have a theme that will be a forever remembrance. Or, celebrate your wedding on Valentine's Day weekend ... Doesn't get any more romantic!.
- 3. Max Your Guest List - A better chance for those you want to be there will come.
June through September is a busy time for everyone ... family vacations, weekend trips, back to school time and weddings (other than yours) to attend. Schedule your wedding celebration in the off season, and the RSVP's from your invitation list will pour in.
- 4. Stretch Your Budget Even Further - Pick a super bargain date.
How about the Saturday after Thanksgiving ... family is in town and people have time off. Or, consider a weekday wedding celebration between Christmas and New Year's Day. Most people are already taking days off, and your bargaining power with venues and vendors increases exponentially ... you'll MAX OUT the celebration that your budget can buy.
